

IMITATION OF THE TRUTH CYBERPOLITICS, INTERNET, TELEPRESENCE, VIRTUAL REALITY

Miguel Serrano

*When the children are born with their eyes open
It will be in the Iron Age and the end of the world is near.*

- Hesiod

To the traditional institutions of Chile: Farmers, Army, Navy, Air Force and Carabineros, in a fight to the death to preserve your identity and your existence.

And to those very few young people who - having still been born with their eyes closed - could still be saved.

INITIAL WORDS

In the Universe, in Nature, nothing is the same. The Difference is the Law. Even a crystal of snow is distinguished from the others. You could say that it was God who made the infinite inequalities. God created the races, also the countries, nations etc. To pretend to mix them and end the differences is to impoverish the world and to act against the Will of the Creator. Furthermore, either by force or by cunning, Nature makes the stronger overpower the weaker. Not understanding it, surrendering meekly, dreaming of a nonexistent equality between races and countries, is to facilitate the slavery imposed on the world today by a Secret World Government, of super-racist criminals, who preach anti-racism and integration in order to better establish its dominance and totalitarian dictatorship upon earth.

With the dream of a global village, of a "globalism", promoted by that hidden Power, totalitarian; the Chilean rulers, with their free trade, or their socialist, capitalist, Marxist, internationalist, alike, have been delivering pieces of the homeland (Patagonia, Laguna of the Desert, the Continental Ices), selling them or giving them away, foolishly, cowardly, cunningly, behind the backs of the people and the true Chilean. Justifying it all with the illusion of "modernism" and the acquisition of an amazing technology, of which the masters still hidden from the world are served, to fulfill their dominion and slavery over the inhabitants of the peripheral areas from the Third World! From the "First" and the "Second Wave", to those that will never allow the "Third Wave" to pass, such as controllers and creators of that science, nor of their own destinations. Hopefully, the following pages can be used to shake and alert responsible Chileans and Latin Americans, who have not yet been hypnotized or are totally committed, in order to save what still remains of their national soil, their independence and of their freedom.

THE "CYBERPOLITICS"

On Sunday, February 16, 1996, in the appendage "Arts and Letters" of El Mercurio, of Santiago, an interesting work was published by Mr. José Joaquín Brunner, Minister Secretary General of the Christian Democrat Government of Chile, entitled "Communication and Cultural Changes".

Due to the importance of the subject, in addition to the importance of its author, we believe that there is a need to comment on it, pointing out possible alternatives, if there were any, to its grave formulations. They would be pointing the way that the Government of Chile follows, especially after the coming to power of the Christian Democracy. Since the time of Eduardo Frei Montalva, it has been decided to follow this dangerous line. Indeed, it was during his government that the first link was established between the University of Chile and that of Chicago, thus giving rise to the "Chicago Boys".

Mr. Brunner has revealed to us the key that allows us to know the true and deeper intentions of the Government established in Chile. It seems like a long time ago that a rationalist balance had been made here, reaching the conclusion that the world will be ruled by cybernetics, electronics, and computerized robots, moving away from politics based on agriculture, traditions, and national armies. In a word, it would be about the disappearance of the Nation-State, the physical homeland. And the sooner, the better. From there then the conscious non-support of "seasonal" agriculture, coinciding with the attack, sometimes underhanded, but bitter and continuous, upon the Armed Forces and the armies that were based on a Prussian tradition that is now considered "picturesque". Instead, they are intending to advance more and more in a cutting-edge technology, in its communicational aspects and computer science. This does not benefit Chile, as a Nation, but so that technology can deny a functioning 'casual region', so that a group of aggressive entrepreneurs achieve a privileged position, regardless of race, soil, or nationality. It wasn't for nothing that Mr. Rosenblut, also a senior government official, or rather, of the Presidency, did declare in an interview with Ya magazine, on March 28, 1995: "seduces him with the idea that Chile become multiracial and let us see Koreans, Chinese, Americans, French, Japanese - all mixed up. It is a model of a global village, as is the world intercommunication".

The Minister Secretary General of the Government Refers widely to the Internet, fascinated by the possibilities of its inevitable and rapid development:

In the head of a pin they will fit all the world's information ... at the beginning of the next millennium your phone will receive, classify and, perhaps even answer incoming calls as if it was a well-trained English butler ...at the beginning of the emergence of an interconnected universal network, audio, video communication and electronic text, which will blur the distinction between interpersonal and mass communication and between public and private communication ... Socially we will relate in the form of digital communities in which the physical space will be irrelevant ... The digital era will end up re-territorializing cultures, compressing the space in which we live and communicate to the metaphorical size of the head of a pin.

That is, the English butler will be on the head of a pin. The image of the world as the head of a pin. The global village (again) is the community that will live there. It continues:

The proper place - where we are locals, (Chileans, for example) - disappears to give way to the entire globe, compressed to take the form of a telecommunication community. On that basis a global consciousness develops, and at the same time that local cultures would lose their roots and they would vanish.

As we interconnect, many of the values of a nation-state will give way to values of electronic communities.

(The underline is ours)... Twenty years from now, when you look through a window, what will be true could be two thousand kilometers and six time zones away ... and to read about Patagonia could include the sensory experience to be physically there ... In its extreme version, this vision supposes the appearance of a collective consciousness on a planetary scale, where each individual is linked to others by technologies of interaction; those that replace the English butler ... where medical, analysis and diagnosis will be done by computer in robotic pharmacies.

Even when it is claimed that the Internet lacks centralized control, being ubiquitous, so to speak (being able to obey the old definition of the Godhead, that "it is a Circle whose center is everywhere and its circumference anywhere"), we do not believe it, for the sole fact that the Internet is a creation of the Pentagon, and there will always be the original patent, and at the same time a number for the user, always able to discover the place, cause and origin of the information, communication or "penetration". It is only a matter of time, because there is a World Power. A "Center" of the "Divinity", so to speak, although it seems "to be everywhere". And it will be that "Center" (which already has the cybernetic map of the world ready - the "cyber-map" - with rulers and ruled, with masters and servants) that for no reason will allow "marginal regions", in "peripheral places" of the "Circumference", that "seems to be nowhere". No way will they allow them to become established, of their own free will, in the seats of preference of the "Third Wave".

To this testifies, among other things, the failure of the Chilean satellite "Fasat-Alfa"! Also the persecution of the industrialist Carlos Cardoen, who could become a danger in a second or third attempt. If the Chilean Air Force has success in sending a satellite into space, it will be because it has already accepted all the requirements and fulfilled the requirements that the "Empire" demands of its vassals. There will be no discovery and manufacture of state-of-the-art technology in a peripheral place of the planet in the "Third Wave".

Mr. José Joaquín Bronner's exhibition was connected closely with that of the futurologist Sergio Melnik, that, some time ago, also predicted the end of poetry, philosophy and literature, surpassed by Artificial intelligence (AI), cybertronics and virtual reality, which will replace even Ecology.

AND THE ARMY?

Traditional agriculture seems to no longer have defenses, in vitro fertilization; tree and plant clone's in the vernacular. Could an Army of Tradition (Prussian) survive as the Chilean? And, also, the Navy?

The tremendous pressure to impose worldwide the "Doctrine of the Pentagon" became visible recently in the "Bariloche Meeting" of the Commanders in Chief of the Latin American Armies.

There, the Argentina President, Menem, actively representing the points of view of the "World Empire", pushed for the acceptance of the dissolution of the Army. No more defending stable borders, nations, and pretending that the Armed Forces, without distinction between countries (even though Argentines continue seizing Chilean territories), comes to depend on a central, extraterritorial power, to transform itself, under their directives, into police forces, falsely controlling the drug trafficking and terrorism. With energy the Commander in Chief of the Army opposed this pressure on Chile; General Augusto Pinochet, being followed by the Commanders in Chief of Brazil and other countries, where they still exist as such in the region.

However, will the Chilean Armed Forces be able to resist, if they do not find the necessary and miraculous antidote, before the dramatic and diabolical reality of the cyber-war, also so-called 'Info-war'?

The cyber, electronic revolution, the Internet, applied to new military and scientific conceptions of war, make any future conflict appear like a science fiction movie, or one of those video games so in vogue. Some of this was shown already in the Gulf War. And it has been said that Saddam Hussein himself had in his possession some means, which would have allowed him to interfere with banking communications, telephone companies and railway mobilization in both the United States and England, capable of producing a momentary stock market collapse and a railroad catastrophe, of which almost nothing was spoken of at the time. And something very strange would have happened, when a few Dutch mercenaries, technotronics specialists, and also some knowledgeable Hindus, very expert on the topic, offered themselves to collaborate with Iraq, which would have meant, perhaps, a very important contribution. They asked for a million dollars.

The American Air Force is in possession of a dwarf android plane, capable of obtaining detailed information and thousands of photos of the terrestrial geography, while interfering with communications and the enemy's computer networks (the "nano-war"). Using even more powerful means they can modify the weather, and with "T-rays" (discovered by Nicola Tesla) and other subatomic particles, change the thoughts of the leaders of the enemy powers, making them declare things they would never say or think in speeches on television, so as to make trouble for them with their own people. Even virtual reality would be used in war games, where the uniforms worn by the combatants become complicated robotic machines, communicated from top to bottom over an electronic network, of tiny computers, with rays that allow them to see at night; indeed, an artificial "cyber-body", which transforms the soldier into a war robot, an armored car, a cyber-machine, a deadly vehicle on two legs. Its powerful automatic weapon can send back thermal signals, to the high command, with information on the battlefield and damage done to the enemy.

Until now, it does seem that aerial automatons launched into space for information have one obstacle: the forest, the virgin forest. The trees and their utopic language could still be the salvation and refuge of various armies of America, Latin America and some "Third World" countries. Hence, the suspicion of forest fires, that each time more regularly affect the trees of the world, and are always intentional, are secretly caused by the hidden world power that aspires for a total control of the land. Only the desert is favorable to them and easy to dominate. It is thus that "the desert spreads", as Nietzsche would say. The aridity, the final death. And do not leave it to only chance that in Chile, a mysterious character, the American Douglas Tompkins, is taking over all the virgin forests of Chilean Patagonia. What do you suppose? What is he going to hide there?

Now, it is very interesting to know that almost always, in the last Pentagon war games, carried out within a virtual reality, on videos and computers, their cyber-armies appear as being defeated by much weaker enemies and by armies of the 'Second' and 'First Wave'. The reason being they lack a complicated and centralized communications network, finding themselves scattered, dismembered, and their forces disorganized, they are less vulnerable to an all-out attack of an information war. And the final domination over a defeated country has always been carried out by man, by the old and traditional Infantry, not by robots and machines at a distance. Not yet. And the weakness of the great power is in the little value of his human being; regressed, distorted by the almighty machine and super-technology.

For this reason, the Pentagon, at the service of that Secret World Government, tries by all means to impose its "Doctrine", to dismantle the traditional armies, nations and nation-states, so that, without shooting an "info-shot", they have won the battle before it ever starts.

For the same reason, Armed Forces like the Chilean would do very well in resisting, not allowing to be assimilated and destroyed, nor be fascinated with the new forms of cyber warfare, of information war, but, on the contrary, to simultaneously develop older, "Third World" strategies and tactics or "First Wave", of the poor countries, where the commanders and the communications are like those of the Incas and Araucanians, with human messengers using drums and smoke signals, symbols and transmissions where electronics do not manage to interfere, within impenetrable forests, with the complicity of Nature, animals and birds, and even volcanoes and stars. Maybe to save themselves from electronics and the hellish android imperialism the few Nations that still survive will find the solution in the legendary messenger Michel Strogoff, the Czar's Courier ...

IMITATION OF THE TRUTH

Within fifty years, the so-called "nano-technology", the manipulation of atoms and individual molecules, to form submicroscopic structures, will have advanced enough that tiny robotics can perform inside the human body, circulating through the bloodstream. There already exists items, products of micro-engineering that are inserted inside a computer, capable of seizing their energy from the central circuits and use them to convey your personal information. Thus, the "nano-technology" is the next step, which will make all counter-espionage techniques valid. In the same way can be produced three-dimensional computers, which build a geophysical map of the cities, capable of establishing a meter by meter control. Already existing are cameras that, under the pretext of preventing robberies and assaults, both in England as in America, they can monitor the movement and the lives of thousands of citizens, through remote control devices. When a "smart card" is added, possessing a "chip" that registers all activities of an individual, from cradle to the grave, receiving and delivering information in a central computer, the much talked about so called "democracy", with its human rights and individual freedoms, will not exist for one more fiction. On the contrary, a totalitarian state, robotized to the maximum. It will be the near future of the human species with even the disappearance of "plastic money" (the credit and debit card), giving way to the "laser brand in the flesh". The "Mark of the Apocalypse".

To the info-war, referred to above, it would be necessary to add the "Kamomanasic" war; purely mental. They are already working on cyber-telepathy. In other words, telepathy has also been automated, in combination with the computer. It would start with the same help of the electrodes that are used in electroencephalograms, being able to douse the mysterious "Mu" waves of the brain.

The Scientists specialized in the subject already speak of the "interbrain-computer" (BCI: "Brain-Computer-Interface"). Thus, in Asia, Europe and the United States (the "Trilateral" in the "Third Wave"), they are looking to decode the waves and signals that are generated in the brain in order to manage the computer with thought; one day being able to control an entire brain only with the mind. Like a thinking robot, they will make use of the human brain, since its circuits could work without any intermediation. The old legend of the Golem is already a reality.

Norbert Wiener, one of the creators of cybernetics, in the late 1960s published a book entitled "God the Golem and Company". I read this book in Europe and sent a gift copy to President Frei Montalva. I never knew his reaction, which would not have been positive, judging by his campaign against traditional agriculture, continued today by his son, in addition to his non-defense of the Laguna del Desierto and his little sympathy for the Armed Forces. In this book, Wiener reveals his suspicions that man was a robot that God created to investigate a certain part of the Universe, a god-sent computer, almost perfect, to which he inserted an energy called Spirit. The robot-man would have turned against his creator, destroying him ("God is dead!" Declared Nietzsche). Now his robot, that man created, will turn against and annihilate him. Going down a fatal slope, with a vesanic impulse to self-destruct, blind, hypnotized or drunk, man improves the robot more and more; searching for ways to introduce personality and feelings, life subjective and even an "I". There are already capable robots to win games of chess against man (this legend, archetype, is also old, e.g. the 1930s German movie, starring Conrad Veit, "The Chess Player"). The ethnicity that, apparently, still preserves the superiority of man is that the robot does not reproduce itself, of its own free will. It is stated also that it lacks common sense.

Now, is it always going to be like this? When connecting the man's brain waves to the robot machine he has exposed himself to having his mysterious energy ("Mu") stolen, just as man would have stolen the Spirit from God. Also, that other dangerous one (and we think, diabolical), the universal energy, electricity, could also be conscious, thinking a thought; but a thought of the devil, since electricity spreads evil without remedy upon the earth. Without electricity there is no robot, electronic, technetronic, psychotronic, nor cybernetic.

It was Tesla who discovered an "electricity alternative", the "tachyon" rays, of subatomic particles, the "T" rays. He was in contact with Edison, who wanted to market it, as he did with the electricity. Tesla resisted. However, his "other electricity" fell into even worse hands. And today, together with known electricity, has the world under control and man transformed into a zombie. It seems that since the First World War, there are those who are using it to dominate the human brain. Today, with the "Tachyon" machine they can change and manipulate the minds of the inhabitants of entire regions, together with the subliminal messages skillfully released by television and the most varied product advertising, its reception provided in such things as the massive consumption of drugged drinks, like Coca-Cola, which produce addiction. The subliminal messages are not detected by the consciousness. Today computers use silicon "chips" to "think". They do not yet have a mind, or a soul. They are intelligent, but still different from human.

One of the most interesting conversations we had with Professor C. G. Jung, at the end of his days, was about the human brain and its relationship to the mind. Gerhard Wehr refers to it in the pages dedicated to my conversation in his important book: Jung. His Life, his Work, his Influence, edited by "Paidos" and in circulation at the main bookstores. Jung told me: "If the mind is able to function outside the brain, that is, the space and time, then it is incorruptible".

This cannot be a matter of principles, conceptions, nor faith. You have to experience it. And Jung had. Being able to live it is a possibility of the human condition, perhaps divine, of man. However, with the irrevocable direction undertaken today, with virtual reality especially, it seems that this door is closed forever. There does not exist nor will there be a computer more perfect nor more extraordinary than the human brain, made to be used by the Mind. Yet, it has hardly been taken advantage of today in its infinite programming capacity. For now the right hemisphere appears untouched by the present man. With virtual reality it becomes meaningless and their extensive functions unnecessary, since it has been replaced by a machine, even if its incorporation is achieved by means of "chips", electrodes and waves. Virtual reality will always be that; virtual. Although our own reality was perhaps also a fantasy, an illusion, a Hindu "maya". The cybernetic helmet will replace and avoid the awakening of the "Third Eye", the Ray of Shiva; the cyber-glove and the cyber-suit will give us the feeling of projecting ourselves into an "astral body" —in the "Linga Sharira". However, it will be no more than an ersatz, an "imitation of the truth", which will be fulfilled at the expense of the real transmutation and the recovery of the Great Power, of the Total-Man, of the Total Brain, which will atrophy not only in the right hemisphere, but also in the left, for lack of use and effort, cut off from the old disciplines of development. So serious is this that it already affects human genetics. Today children are born with their eyes open, which must symbolize the loss of the possibility of opening the "Third Eye", or "Ajna Chakra", at the front joint of the two hemispheres of the brain. In addition, at three years old they already have their little fingers on the buttons of the computer. Two thousand nine hundred years ago, Hesiod predicted that "when children are born with their eyes open, will be in the full Iron Age and the end of the world".

A GREAT CONSPIRACY?

I remember that in India I had an important discussion with Aldous Huxley. Along with introducing his book The Doors of Perception to me, he expounded to me his belief that mescaline, even more so LSD, was the "wonderful means by which the old endeavors of yogis and saints to achieve mystical states of contemplation, ecstasy or "samadhis", those harsh disciplines and torments, which took years, today were reached, thanks to drugs, in just a quarter of an hour". In India I had also met Professor Arnold Toynbee, who preached against the countryside, agriculture, and for the triumph of the "city without limits". Then in the United States of America, I was invited by Alan Watts, who had more than two hundred experiences with drugs, and by John Lilly, who had come from visiting Allende's Chile (already converted into a drug trafficking center), with a stay at the Ichazo and Naranjo Center, in Arica, precisely where the drug transited to his liking. Lilly is a dangerous manipulator of the human brain and specialist in the "language of the dolphins", with contacts in the CIA and the Pentagon. In Switzerland, I visited with Timothy Leary, ex-Harvard professor, promoter, and drug trafficker in those years, also in contact with the CIA.

They thought that, like Castaneda, with his Teachings of Don Juan, I too could become useful with my work, edited by "Harper and Row", in the United States, and by "Routledge and Kegan Paul", in England. They had already made the most of Hermann Hesse, with the voracious complicity of his family. But with me they were wrong, because from my experience in India, plus knowledge and contacts obtained in Chile, during World War II, I knew perfectly well that the drug destroys the virtuality of the chakras and prevents the true development of the Total-Man.

It is known that in the late forties and of the early fifties, the world intelligence services, especially from England, with the Tavistock Institute, and from the United States of America, started a conspiracy to destroy two or three generations of youth, with the promotion of drugs and the movements of "Hippies" and electronic music. The "Beatles" were decorated by the Queen of England. Timothy Leary declared to me, with his face transfixed, that being born just at the time of the appearance of electronic music was the privilege of the elect.

I could not say for certain if the intellectuals like Aldous Huxley, Arnold Toynbee, Alan Watts, Arthur Koestler, Timothy Leary and Castaneda himself, had purposely served the Great Conspiracy, as agents of some powerful world intelligence service.

One more step, which is already definitive and quite possibly the last, because Virtual Reality is the most powerful of the drugs, the Absolute Drug, which will replace them all, which has been introduced at the end of the current millennium and the beginning of the next.

IS THERE AN ALTERNATIVE?

There was. It was Germany, precisely, the primary reason responsible for these terrible inventions, which originate from Planck's quantum mathematics, in addition to other disciplines. Back in the twenties, movies like Metropolis show us television and the creation of a "clone" woman. There are also films like Alraune and La Mujer Artificial and The Chess Player, already mentioned. With the arrival of National Socialism to power in Germany, this science would be transformed into Another

Science, which would have been able to control its damaging effects on the crowd. Due to the fact that Democracy was ending, that is, with indiscriminate diffusion (always voluntary within democracy and intentional). So the "virtual reality", for example, would never have come into the hands of the world, being the exclusive use of a hierarchical elite. A society like that, originated in estates, in the end it had to be built into a very totalitarian special system, with various hierarchies and elites, where the ultimate goal of the cusp was the access to a Spiritual Science, still higher, a Tantric Alchemy of transmutation destined exclusively to transform man into Superman. In this way, for that elite of the cusp, the interaction would have been established between the left hemisphere and the right hemisphere of the brain, that someone existed in that place of a distant Aryan Paradise (Ariana Baiji), in the missing Hyperborea. That is to say, the recovery of a Power lost by the Aryan race, exclusively. Power of the Immaterial Mind, which works outside of time and space, and that achieves the two hemispheres of the brain on this earth, plus the other "brains" of the chakras, transforming the man into a sphere, into a star (a UFO), which makes obsolete the exclusively rationalistic science (of the left hemisphere) and the machine, because it has rediscovered the Ancient Power that levitated the dolmens and the Mohai. The Mana of Easter Island, of Rapa Nui. This Power could not be reactivated by India, due to the "racial sin"; That is, by the mixture of the Aryans with the Dravidians, of the Divyas (Nepheline) with "the daughters of men." Hence, then, the struggle of Hitlerism to "purify the Aryan race", in order to achieve the recovery of that Power exclusive to whites. The re-creation of the Superman by Nietzsche. And not only in Germany.

This is why they were racist.

As a result of that position, by addition, or "Synchronism", came the Other German Science, of the last years of the War, discovery and control of implosion, opposed to the explosion, thus achieving mastery of the anti-gravity. They also discovered that electricity is bad, and that legendary men illuminated the caverns with a Spiritual White Light. Even Solar Energy is lacking. As the Cathars said, the entire visible universe is contaminated by Evil. Only the Spiritual White Light, the Mana Energy, of the ancient Rapa Nui, is saved, for being superior and prior to extreme materialization. Against the Absolute Drug of Virtual Reality, there is only one antidote: the Absolute Man of Esoteric Hitlerism.

THE CHARLOTTENBURG LETTER

Near the end of World War II and in response to the 'Letter of San Francisco', which gave birth to the United Nations, the Hitlerists released the 'Letter of Charlottenburg'.

This Charter advocates a relationship that exists between humans and nations, constituted on the basis of their ethnic and linguistic configuration. They also published a Map of the New Europe, with this "New Order" (they were the first to coin the term). It is the opposite to the conception of a world related by the commerce of transnationals and with a total mix of races, without countries, without territorial borders and without a 'carnal' relationship with the land. It advocates balance of soul and land [blood and soil], between the man and his living environment, with the "the soul of nature", or with the "homeland of the soul" of Nietzsche; and the "soul of the land" of Otto Rahn, to which he refers to in his book The Court of Lucifer. It is also the topic of my work, of more than forty years ago, Neither by Sea, nor by Land.

For the authors of the "Letter of San Francisco", the earth is not a living being, with a soul differentiated in its different geographies and extremes, where the being inhabiting them has achieved an "interrelation" of life and death, where their very cells have been fed by the sage from its depths, so that the Homeland, its families and their lineages form a line of continuity, woven with a golden thread in the fabric of the landscape, the soul and the soul blood. As the song of the Eddas says: "There is no immortality for the individual without the memory of the lineage, of the children, the spouses, and the fathers, whose names are engraved in the stone."

The Homeland is thus something quite different from a "Mall"; It is a succession of lineages, closely linked by a common Collective unconscious, of myths, legends and traditions, linked with the soul of the landscape and the earth, in such a way that every square meter of soil is sacred, not sold, not given away, nor is it lost. And man is willing to give his life to defend it, and preserve it; like the Chechens, the Croats, the Serbs and the Bosnians. The Peruvians and Ecuadorians today. From Sparta, yesterday. In this warm, cultivated world (not "Humanist" or mechanical), the English butler and the tenant of the Chilean countryside will always have a safe and privileged place, cordial, of the heart. Geography is geomancy and the magical land is crossed by ley lines. "Law", by magnetic and spiritual currents, like the body of man, in such a way that there is an "acausal" relationship between the two, to the point of making Professor Jung say about the disease, which then afflicted me in India, during the terrible earthquake in Chile of the 1960s that destroyed the city of Valdivia, he said it was "synchronistic with my land"...

To destroy this mysterious relationship, to ignore it, as Mr. Brünner and the "cyber-politics" of the Government, which he represents has, is to commit a great metaphysical crime, deep, against the Magical Homeland and against "The God who created our People". Defend the tradition of a nationalist and patriotic Army, within that mysterious divinity. And fight to the death defending the small homeland, alive and beloved, the Homeland of the Soul. To fight for the Laguna del Desierto, the Continental Ice, is to achieve immortality. In the Age of the Hero, one minute before the end of the Kali-yuga. It is saving the Soul of the Spiritual Earth, even if the physical earth is destroyed.

As Teilhard de Chardin said: "He who has passionately loved the earth, his earth; when he faints, she will pick him up in her arms and encourage him". And it is very possible that the one who thus resists, embracing and being embraced by the tradition and the life of the lineages, in mutual understanding and balance with his landscape, making up and reinforcing the "Army of the People", - as in Arauco - opposing the "Professional armies" of info-warfare, robotized and bureaucratic, with satellites spinning in space, with the internet and virtual reality, that one who resists will find help from beings that inhabit an "extra-dimension", or "extra-situation". They will reach out to you when everything seems lost, because the electricity will be destroyed, with the Power of Mana. Then those who took refuge, in the mountains and virgin forests, will be those who survive the catastrophe: "The shepherd of the high peaks", as Plato tells us, in the destruction of Atlantis.

That's what I intended to do with the colonization of the Melimoyu.

If we have given ourselves the trouble of synthesizing these ideas, it was because we believed in the urgent need to seek an answer to the important exposition of Mr. José Joaquín Brünner, who represents the wrong and dangerous position of the current government. And to show to the young people, who are in Chile, and in other places where they are still born with their eyes closed, they could still attempt the glorious and legendary "Opus" of the transmutation into the Total-Man, into the Absolute Man. Fighting to the death against the computer, the android, the virtual reality and the "System" that will destroy them, transforming them into just "neural modules" of a cybernetic interrelationship on a planetary scale, as mere disposable cyber-nuts of a Global Village of slave workers, agents, at the "Mall" of plastic and cement.

We also want to help defend those Armed forces, which still refuse to be included within the lethal Doctrine of the Pentagon, reducing themselves to mere police forces, in an apparent fight against drug trafficking and subversion. Because there is an alternative and the possibility of another option, maintaining at all costs the validity of a Nation-State, in Form. And the emblem of our National Shield: "By Reason or Force".

Against the impermanence of the written Constitution, the perennial Historical Constitution prevails.

The only possible solution, the only antidote that still exists, is esoteric Hitlerist National Socialism, with its total Weltanschauung. The only one who could save a desperate youth, before their hopeless robotization in the Age (Yuga) of Lead, and of Plastic, offering him the great adventure of the transfiguration of the Superman and the full development of his powers, in mutual understanding with the Magic Homeland. In the Yuga of the Hero.

THE TOMB OF LENIN AND THE MANUTARAM

The Lord José Joaquín Brünner is a technocrat from communications. The most important communicator of the current Government of Chile. An expert on cyber politics and the information war. However, dare we think that some of the philosophical and metaphysical pathos of ancestors still circulates through his blood? And even if he wants to believe that the Internet, virtual reality, the computer incorporated and all that electronic paraphernalia, have killed history, tradition, philosophy, Art in general and, above all, the book, in some corner of his genes he will be thinking and even hoping that this is not so. And that there's still another thing.

Because the world is much more mysterious than it seems.

Yes, the world is full of strange things! For example, did Mr. Brünner know that in Lenin's tomb his mummy is not dead but alive? And that during all the long years of Soviet Leninist Marxism it was actually he who ruled? And that he is still alive today, because still there is the same Russian esoteric sect of black magic keeping him alive (his mummy) by circulating a strange liquid through his veins? (The same would happen in communist China with Mao's mummy.) Those "technocrats of magic" would pretend to revive the ancient science of the Egyptian priests, gathering their knowledge with the materialist conception of Leninist-Marxism. They seriously believe that immortality is in the cells. Just as the Egyptian priests preserved the entrails of the mummies of the Pharaohs, in pots and in special liquids, Lenin's brain has also been the same preserved (similar to today with the brains that are sent into extraterrestrial space in the spaceships). The Egyptians knew of the fundamental importance of the physical internal organs, in relation to the mummy and the "Ka", the etheric double. Thus they would never have committed the ontological crime of the transplanting of organs. Something stopped working in relation to the Mummy in the Egypt of the Dynasties, something that was lost in Atlantis. Regardless, the communists did not believe in the "Ka" and only in the immortality of the cell.

The "initiates" of "esoteric Marxism", because of their race and faults in the memory of their blood, had forgotten what the ancient inhabitants of Easter Island knew very well. To achieve bodily immortality, even of cells, it would have been necessary to intercommunicate the body with Mind, so as to disintegrate the body and transfer its energies to the "Ka", or "Double", thus being able to immortalize its form, without dissolving the self. It is the resurrection of the ancient Taoist magicians, the resurrection of Wotan, on the ninth day, and from Kristus, on the third. And also, Hitler's resurrection.

In a conversation with the oldest of the tribe of the Pakarati, of Easter Island, he revealed to me that his race once had the power to die at will (without dying) and that also the ancients could move to visit distant places and worlds with the body of Mana (Manu, Mind), with the "Ka", as Hoto-Matua, the Ancestor, the Root-Man (the Bird-Man), who thus came from Hiva. That is, they would not have needed the cyber-helmet, the cyber-body, of virtual reality. They could also, at will, move the Mohai (mohai-mummy-mahori), those "mummies of stone" of Rapa Nui, that today only sleep.

There is something dark in the soul of Slavic Russia, always present, that Ossendowsky already saw, when he wrote The Terrifying Shadow of the East, to describe the Russia of Rasputin, Lenin, Trotsky and Stalin.

In the disappeared Rapa Nui, in the Mana and the Initiation of the Manutara, the caste of the ears was of Aryan blood, like the Vikings, according to what the wise Chilean hematologist Dr. Ratl Etcheverry has been able to verify when doing the blood analysis of the surviving indigenous people. They are from the group "A".

And it is there, in the Aryan blood, in the white race, where there could exist on this planet the last possibility of recovering the Mana, the lost Power that makes unnecessary the science that imitates the truth and that will destroy, in the end, the man on earth. I recently visited Rapa Nui. There it is thought that the Manutara no longer exists, but descending from the Rano-Kao volcano and, on the island of Hapu Manu, from the "Cry of the Bird", I saw it. He flew majestically, with his partner (Him and Her) while approaching me.

I interpret it as another message from Nature and the Heavens, to confirm in us our faith in the sacred struggle for the Mystical Homeland and the Absolute Man returned to his Her. Flying together. The Manutara! Manú is the Man-root, much older than Hoto-Matua, and also Tara, the Goddess of Mahajanica Tantric Buddhism, and also the Eternal Feminine.

Against the Black Magic of virtual reality, the Internet, telepresence and cyber politics of the "Mall-Governments", with Presidents-Managers-Robots (remote-guided by "chips" inserted in their bodies), only the White Magic of Esoteric Hitlerism can triumph.
